* This includes only the period from the 16th September the duration of the visits not being recorded before that date.

† This does not comprise the whole of the visits in 1857 and 1858, the Porter's Book having been disposed of, the Return has been made as far as practicable from the Guardian's Minutes.

‡ This is only from the 7th August, the Porter's Book not being forthcoming from an earlier date.

Several visits appear to have been omitted from the Porter's Book and several others are given which are not recorded on Dr Brodie's diary, and therefore not included under the head "Number of Visits."

Twelve visits appear to have been omitted from the Porter's Book.

Two visits appear to have been omitted from the Porter's Book.

Four visits appear to have been omitted from the Porter's Book.

Two visits appear to have been omitted from the Porter's Book.

The clerk states that the Inspector was on some occasions in the workhouse for some time before the porter was aware of it, and that on these he spent some time on the farm after leaving the workhouse, so that the full time is not always recorded.

Full time not recorded, the Inspector usually inspecting the farm after leaving the house.

One visit appears to be omitted, and the full time is not recorded in the Porter's Book, the Inspector generally visiting the farm after passing the Porter's Lodge.

(a) The total number of visits do not always equal the aggregate of the numbers in the three preceding columns, one visit being sometimes made for two purposes, in which case it is entered under each head, though reckoned as one only in the total.

(b) These unions are not in Dr Brodie's district, in the Cork Union he was specially instructed to inquire into the mortality among the juvenile inmates, and in the other unions he was instructed to inspect in consequence of the illness of the Inspector in charge.

(a) The total number of visits is not always equal to the aggregate of the three preceding columns, one visit being sometimes made for two purposes, in which case it is entered under each head, but reckoned as one only in the total.
(b) These unions were not under Mr. Robinson's charge, but he visited them under special instructions from the Commissioners.
(c) These unions were not placed under Mr. Robinson's charge until August 1857.
